ARRAIGNED FOR ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO KILL

Angelo Pappi to Have His Preliminary Trial on Next Monday

Deputy Sheriff Robert Scott of Exeter arrived here on Thursday evening, having in custody Angelo Pappi, wanted for attempted murder at Raymond on August 28 and who was arrested by the police at New-ark on Tuesday.

Pappi was arraigned before Judge Shines today. He was represented by Attorney John K. Bartlett of Berry. County Solicitor Charles H. Batchelder appeared for the state. Pappi was held without bail until Monday when the case will have a hearing.

CHARLES BROWN TAKEN TO INSANE ASYLUM

Charles Brown of Rye was taken to the insane asylum at Concord this afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Allan A. Nelson of Gardis and Police-eman Charles Quinn.

He is the young man, son of Moses Brown of Rye, who was the subject of a police court hearing on Thursday. The Herald published a lengthy report of the hearing, including the testimony that his father had kept him chained to a ring bolt in the floor till his toenails were torn off and his wrists and ankles made into great sores in his attempts to escape, and that he had been kept there naked and shivering with the cold.

FOURTH MARRIAGE

Of Both Bride and Groom Who Belong in Portsmouth

Charles A. Jones and Mrs. Ellen C. McLean were married on Thursday at the Kearsarge House by Rev.
Mr. Titus of Somerville. Both reside in this city and their ages are sixty and sixty-five respectively.
The marriage was the fourth of both of the contracting parties.

ESCAPED FROM HER ROOM

A woman residing on Fleet street, who was ill, was taken, suddenly insane on Thursday evening.

When the attendant who was ear-
short time, she escaped in her night clothing and ran down to Vaughan street. She frightened several women by grabbing at them as they passed.

The police and several men came to the assistance of the unfortunate woman and finally got her back to her room.

CYRUS A. SULLOWAY

Unanimously Nominated for an Eighth Term in Congress

Cyrus A. Sulloway of Manchester was unanimously re-nominated at the First New Hampshire congressional district convention held in Manchester this afternoon.

The convention was merely a formality, there being no opposition to the man who has served continuously from this district since March, 1895, following his first election in November, 1891.

Mr. Sulloway was introduced to the convention and expressed his thanks for the signal honor of an eightth nomination.

The convention delegates were largely men who attended the state convention at Concord on Thursday.
John C. McLeod of Manchester presided at the convention.

FOREST FIRE AT BRIXHAM IN YORK

Gypsy Moth Crew Called off Regular Work to Fight in the Woods

The broke out Thursday night in the woods in that part of York
known as Brixham.

Several hundred acres are endangered.
The selectmen exercised their authority as forest fire wardens, and called out a force of citizens to fight the fire.

It quickly gained on them and all night long the hot glow was in the sky to the north-east from Portsmouth. The smoke lay down into the city, steadily and the distance is so short that it is a daily all the day greenish-purplish. Terrible eyes and irritated nostrils are the regular thing in this city.

This morning an appeal for additional help was made and the gypsy moth crews were impressed into the service. From Kibbey Point alone, Foreman E. M. Sadler and ten gypsy moth fighters were obtained to relieve the exhausted men of the woods in that part of York

known as Brixham.

They are hoping to keep it from spreading very greatly.
Northern Maine is full of forest fires, but this is the only one near Portsmouth.

The prayer is "Give us rain."
Two million feet of lumber and about two thousand cords of firewood are reported burned on the Junkins lot.

The fire has razed its fiercest in the slashings where this stuff was cut in the winter and spring.

The fighters have not been able to hold it back in the entrenches but report that they are doing well in the green growth.

The families are moved out of the Charles W. Junkins house and the James O. Leavitt house today. They fear that a sudden turn of the wind might sweep the flames over them at any time.

It is reported that the fire started from an Italian camp.

WITH THE THEATRICAL FOLK

Fenberg Stock Company Coming

A new play, one that comes with the stamp of success, will be introduced by the Fenberg Stock Company, during their engagement which opens Monday, Sept. 21, at the Music Hall.

"The Life of an Actress" by Madison McCormick has caught the popular fancy, and is playing to record business everywhere. It is a sensational romantic melodrama in four acts and seven scenes, written around the life of a famous woman in the theatrical profession and depicting the struggle of a pretty country girl to attain the ambition of becoming a stage star.

Manager Fenberg has selected this season a large and excellent cast among whom we can mention, Charles on Clemens, the well known leading on, D. J. Hamilton, Bert Walter, June De Vito, Harry Howard, Louis Morrison, Jean Barnum, Chris Vito, June Tyrell, Eddie Radcliffe, Amy Shaffer, Fern Foster, Marie McNiff and Edna Griffith.

As usual Monday evening will be ladies' night with tickets limited to 200.

Seat sale for this attraction opens Friday morning.

The opening play is one of the strongest melodramas, "A Millionaire's Revenge." This play has been on tour ever since that tragedy on Madison Square Roof garden, New York, and has made a fortune for its owners, and only owing to the management playing a very high royalty for same, has been able to secure same for this company.

Denman Thompson Has Some Relics

At the Tremont entrance to the Boston Theatre some interesting relics from Denman Thompson's old home at West Swanzy, N. Y., are on exhibition.

The relics represent things that were in use in every farmhouse in New England a century ago, and though they are of more than ordinary interest, especially to those who can go back in memory to the days when the redoubled, the warning gun, the boot-jack, and all other homely appliances of the farmhouse were in every day use.

The collection, belonging to Mr. Thompson, includes an ancient pair of saddlebags, a warning gun, a soap yoke, a boot-jack and a flax basket. Perhaps the most interesting of the collection are the saddlebags, which besides being an interesting relic of bygone days, have also an historical interest.

In 1895, on the occasion of the inauguration of John Langdon, the third governor of New Hampshire, at Concord, Denman Thompson's great grandfather, Amasa Smith, attended the inauguration on horseback, and used this identical pair of saddlebags. In those days the only means of transportation over the rough country roads was by horse, and the saddlebags were worn across the backs of the horses, filled with food for the rider and such other articles as it might be necessary for him to carry.

Many of us can recall the warning gun, which was filled with hot coals from the stove as a warning approach, and then put under the bed clothing and moved to and fro until the bed was safely warmed.

Perhaps the most unique thing in the collection is the soap yoke or water carrier. As its name implies, it is a sort of yoke which the woman carries on her shoulders and from each end is suspended a bucket. At one time when the soap yoke was used for carrying the soap from the trees to the place where it was to be refined into soap.

The flax basket, a queer looking arrangement with two sides of it, was used to pull the flax through a machine to strip off the shell of flax. The boot-jack, more than a century old, gives one the impression that in the old days men must have had a hard time of it.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most destructive to human existence. It is called kidney trouble. Many sudden deaths are caused by it. Heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or any of the diseases of the body are the result of kidney trouble. If kidney trouble is allowed to become chronic, it will lead to a fatal end.

LOBSTER HATCHING

How the Work is Proceeding at the Maine Coast Station

The officers of the government fish commission, which has just sailed on a trip along the coast give out some interesting information concerning the work of lobster propagation this past summer.

At the United States fish hatchery on McKown's Point, Bathing Harbor, active operations have been suspended, the past season having been productive of excellent results, indicated by the following summary of the work.

In round numbers 150,000,000 eggs and 75,000,000 seed were collected, the former producing 1,000,000 fry and the latter 500,000 fry, all of which were let loose in carefully selected localities along the Maine coast. The places where the fry were let loose are on every coast county from York to Washington.

The lobster eggs were the fruits of 1,000 "seeders," which were purchased from the lobster dealers in the summer and autumn of 1907, and used for hatching in the government pound at Penikese, until last April, when they were removed to the hatchery at the station, and the mother lobsters given their liberty in the open sea.

The red eggs were obtained from the "mother" operations off Portland and brought to the station by the steamer Gannet.

As may be seen, both the red and lobster eggs hatched at this station were taken from stock destined on the market and would have been lost had not the bureau of fisheries purchased and propagated them.

The unusually mild winter and spring, together with other favorable conditions, made it possible to hatch a very large percentage of the eggs, and to place in the sea fry of excellent quality.

The steamer Gannet, Capt. Green, had attended to the collection of eggs, distribution of fry, etc., during the same in an extremely satisfactory manner. In the last season, however, he was ordered to the state boat Sea Gull, United States schooner Grampus, and the Portland steam smack Loma, all of which craft rendered valuable services.

The bureau has recently completed a lobster pound at Penikese, and the superintendent of the station, with a force of men has been busily employed in improving the property, rebuilding a house for the guardian of the pound, and putting the place in proper condition for future work. An appropriation of $10,000 is now available for the enlargement of the lobster pound and for the construction of a wharf and coal house at the station, which work it is hoped will early be taken up.

SEVENTY-EIGHT LESS

Maine Republican Plurality Compared With That of Two Years Ago

The vote for governor of the last town to be heard from was secured at Augusta on Thursday night. This increased Fernald's plurality to 788, unofficial returns, which was 78 less than Governor Cobb received in his reelection two years ago, and 18,850 less than Cobb was given on his first election in 1904.

The unofficial returns gave Fernald 78,801 and Gardner 65,815. The board of registrars of voters met on Thursday evening and appointed the dates for the meetings of the Board until election day.

Charles P. Akerman, a veteran station agent on the Boston and Maine railroad, died on Thursday noon at his home in Hampton Falls, for thirty years and was the oldest railroad man on the eastern division. Mr. Akerman was born in Hampton Falls June 11, 1812. After attending the public schools, he went to work at the hotel business in Salem and later as a clerk at Hampton Beach. In 1867 he went to work for the Boston and Maine railroad as trackman, but gave this up and was for two years the proprietor of a boarding stable at Hampton Beach, but again went back to the railroad and became foreman of the section gang on the Dover branch. In 1877 he was appointed station agent at Hampton Falls, which position he has held up to the time of his death.

He leaves his wife and one daughter, Miss Annie E. Akerman. Mr. Akerman was known all over the system and in his home town was very popular, having served in the legislature.

He was a member of Rockingham Lodge of Odd Fellows and of Union Centric, Patriarchs Militant, of this city.

MANCHESTER INSTITUTE

Tenth Anniversary to be Celebrated in December

The Manchester Institute of Arts and Sciences will celebrate its tenth anniversary Dec. 31, and although no definite plans have yet been made, the day will be fittingly observed.

Ten years ago this institute was started by the union of the Manchester Electric Club and the Manchester Art Association. From small beginnings it has grown into a widely known institution and at present has a $65,000 endowment fund. Today there are five leading sections in its work and many offshoots, particularly the department for children.

Before the old Kennard was burned the members of the institute met in that building. Since then the organization has had quarters in the Weston building. Each year the work is increasing and the membership growing.

NAVAL PLANS

Atlantic Fleet Will Go to Manila Despite the Cholera Outbreak

The appearance of Asiatic cholera at Manila will not change the plans of the Atlantic battleship fleet, which is due there Oct. 1. The surgeon general has advised Navy Secretary Metcalf that two simple rules, rigidly enforced, will make it almost impossible for any sailor to contract the disease. The first is to drink only distilled water taken from the ship's tanks. The second is to eat only cooked food. These rules will be enforced.

Arrangements have been completed for battle maneuvers by the Atlantic and Pacific fleets. The first mentioned fleet will have both battle drill and target practice during the stay in the Philippines. The Pacific fleet will go to Magdalena Bay for similar work in November.

Admiral Sperry has been engaged in battle maneuvers on the coast across the Pacific, but only of such a character as could be undertaken without interfering with the time schedule.

Whether there will be small arms practice ashore at Magdalena Bay is a question to be determined. The Mexican government was approached on the subject three years ago, but it has never given a definite answer.

A PRETTY SIMPLE FROCK.

FROCKS that give princess lines at the front are in great demand for the coming season and this one is charmingly attractive at the same time that it is quite simple. Silk, light weight wool materials and washable ones all are appropriate and the panel with yoke allows treatment of many sorts. It can be trimmed with banding as illustrated or it can be embroidered or braided with tulle, or it can be made of plain while the remainder of the dress is of plain material. It is a care pink linen trimmed with banding, but later cashmere will be pretty so treated or some simple girlish silk could be banded with velvet ribbon if the wearer more dressy wanted. Pongee or tulle purchased just now for little more than the traditional pongee and pongee suits the model perfectly while it will be found useful almost, if not at all, seasons. The blouse and skirt are joined by means of a belt at the sides and back and both are joined to the panel at the front. The cleavage is made at the back. The skirt is straight, gathered at its upper edge.

For a girl ten years of age will be required, 6 1/2 yards of material 24, 4 yards 32 or 3 yards 44 inches wide with 9 1/2 yards of lining. A May Manton pattern No. 4696, except that of that section in the paper, year 1908, is of Baltimore and its outsize crop.

6 to 12 years will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of the paper on receipt of ten cents. (If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.)

CRASHED FROM HIGH IN AIR. Disaster Overtakes Orville Wright's Aeroplane.

SELRIDGE MEETS DEATH.

Army Lieutenant in Machine
With Inventor, the Latter Being Seriously Hurt—Propeller Blade
Broke When Aviators Were Seventy-Five Feet Above Ground—Accident
Not Due to Faulty Principle.

Washington, Sept. 18.—After having drawn world-wide attention to his flights by establishing a new world's record for heavier-than-air flying machines, Orville Wright met with a tragic fate while making a two-man flight at Fort Myer yesterday afternoon. The aeroplane was accompanied by Lieutenant Thomas E. Selridge of signal corps of the army. Lieutenant Selridge was fatally injured and died at 8:10 o'clock last night. Wright was seriously hurt, but is expected to recover.

While the machine was encircling the drill grounds a propeller blade snapped off and, hitting some other part of the intricate mechanism, caused it to overturn in the air and fall to the ground. The two occupants were enveloped in the debris. Soldiers and spectators ran across the field to where the aeroplane had fallen and assisted in lifting Wright and Selridge from under the tangled mass of machinery, rods, wires and sheets of metal.

Lieutenant Selridge was unconscious and had apparently struck the ground with great force. His head was covered with blood and he was choking when the soldiers extricated him. Dr. Watters rendered first aid to the injured men. When their wounds had been bandaged Wright and Selridge were taken to the Fort Myer hospital at the other end of the field.

After a hurried surgical examination it was announced that Wright was not dangerously injured, but was suffering from a fracture of his left thigh and several ribs on his right side. Selridge was suffering from a fracture at the base of the skull. Both men received deep cuts about the head.

Mr. Wright announced several days ago that he would take Selridge, who was secretary of the aerial experiment association, and an aviator himself. In his next flight. The young officer was delighted to have an opportunity to fly in the aeroplane.

After Wright told him to get in the machine, Selridge took his place in the extra seat next to that occupied by Wright, the latter started the motor by means of a storage battery, his assistants, Taylor and Furness, turning the propellers to get them going. At 5:11 the aeroplane was released and it was noticed that it did not rise as quickly from the ground as on previous two-man flights. Selridge weighed about 175 pounds, making the weight greater than the machine had ever carried before.

After gliding over the ground on its runners for thirty feet, the machine rose gradually and had gained a height of forty feet when it passed over the starting apparatus for the first time. There was a six-mile wind and the machine did not run as smoothly as on its former flights, most of which were made in calm weather. The aeroplanists, however, apparently had control of the aerial flyer, which rose to a height of seventy-five feet as it completed the second round of the field. This height was maintained on the third round.

While the machine was turning at the southern end of the field, several thousand feet from the spectators, someone shouted: "What is that? Something fell." Immediately all eyes were on the aeroplane and it was seen to turn over on its left side and, pausing a moment, made a complete turn and then came swooping to the earth in a cloud of dust. No effort on the part of the aviator could possibly have averted the accident. Flaps and rudders were absolutely incapable of righting the machine when it had turned in that manner.

It was fully a minute before anyone reached the wreck. Mounded soldiers formed a cordon while others frantically endeavored to lift the machinery and wood that plumed Wright and Selridge to the ground. The lieutenant's face was covered with blood and he was groaning and choking from internal hemorrhages. Wright lay by his side, his face as pale as the mass of white metal overhead. He was conscious and asked that the machine be lifted off his leg.

As soon as they could be extricated they were taken to one side and physicians from the crowd of spectators went to their aid. Their clothes were loosened and their wounds bandaged. Attendants from the post hospital hastened across the field to the place where the machine lay and as soon as possible Wright and Selridge were laid on stretchers and carried to the hospital.

At 8:10 o'clock Selridge died. He had not regained consciousness. He was expecting his mother, who lives in San Francisco, to arrive in Washington this month. He is a nephew of Admiral Selridge and has a brother who is an officer in the navy.

Mr. Wright on Wednesday repaired the propellers which he had been using with another pair, the blades of which are six inches longer. They were used for the first time in yesterday's disastrous flight and many who have witnessed Wright's flights at Fort Myer believe the change of propellers caused the accident. An examination of the broken blade showed that it had been snapped off at a point one-fourth of the distance from the hub. A deep indentation of the broken piece indicated that it had struck some other part of the aeroplane. Only yesterday morning Wright had been asked what the result would be if one of his propellers broke while the machine was in flight. "The other propeller would tend to turn the machine around," he said, "but I would stop the motor and glide to the earth."

While the surgeons were at work setting his leg, Wright sent word to his assistant, Mr. Taylor, to ask him to examine the wrecked machine to ascertain if there was anything wrong with the transmission. Taylor, after examining the wreck, stated that he could find nothing wrong.

Officers of the signal corps and other enthusiasts at Fort Myer think that the accident was not due to a faulty principle, but to a defect in the propeller, which was made of spruce.

Lieutenant Thomas E. Selridge was one of the most enthusiastic believers in aeroplanes among the officers in the military service, and through his own efforts succeeded in securing a detail with the aeronautical division of the signal corps. He was born in San Francisco 26 years ago and was appointed to the military academy at West Point from that state.

AEROPLANE WRECKED.

Angers, France, Sept. 18.—Rene Gasnier met with an accident while making tests with his aeroplane here. The connecting rod of the planes broke and the machine crashed down from a height of twenty-five feet. Gasnier was severely cut about the head and the aeroplane was wrecked.

STANDINGS UNCHANGED.

Leaders Retain Their Positions in Both the Big Baseball Leagues.

Leaders in both the National and American Leagues were the winners in every game in which they participated yesterday. There is, therefore, no change in the relative standings, except that the first three clubs in the American League drew still further away from St. Louis, which was made, because of rain, to play its game with Philadelphia. Chicago and Cleveland remain tied for second place in the National League, with New York still twenty-eight points in the lead.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

New York, 10; St. Louis, 5; McGinnity, Taylor, Bresnahan and Neukam; Jayson, Higginbotham and Moran.

Chicago, 4; Boston, 1. Rendbach and Kling; Tenney, Ferguson, Rowenman and Smith.

Pittsburgh, 8; Philadelphia, 1. Willis and Gibson; Moran and Dohm.

Brooklyn, 6; Cincinnati, 2. McIntyre and Dunn; Ewing and Seibel.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Detroit, 7; New York, 4. Donovan and Schmitt; Hogg, Manning and Klebow.

Cleveland, 4; Boston, 0. Jess and Dennis; Young and Crier.

Chicago, 5; Washington, 1. White and Sullivan; Tammill, Street and Kaher.

NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE.

New Bedford, 6; Fall River, 5. Merrill and Monahan; Grant, White and Torrey.

Haverhill, 4; Lawrence, 0. O'Toole and Perkins; Gilroy and Duggan.

Worcester, 7; Lowell, 2. Owens and McNamee; Greenwell and Lemieux.

Lynn, 4; Brockton, 2. Abbott and Foster; O'Toole and Drake.

MILKINESS AT SEA.

New York, Sept. 18.—Several big fires are gnawing for their beaches outside New York harbor or picking their paths slowly down the coast on their way from Europe through an atmosphere hazy far beyond the nearest autumnal degree. From all points on the New England coast a thick haze is reported, with observers inclined to the belief that the forest fires in the interior are now making their effort felt at sea by enshrouding the waters for a considerable distance off shore with their pall of smoke.

FIRE IN SHIPYARD.

Boston, Sept. 18.—Fire this morning destroyed the blacksmith shop and sail loft of the George Lawley & Son Corporation plant in South Boston, doing a damage of $10,000. The fire is believed to have caught from the blacksmith shop. Some small sailboats and lumber were also burned. For a time the plant of the Walworth Manufacturing company was alive and threatened, and three alarms of fire were sounded.

MISTAKEN FOR A DEER.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Carl Coll, son of Rev. O. B. Coll, a Methodist clergyman of New York city, was shot in mistake for a deer while he, with his brother and their father, were hunting in the Adirondacks. The boy was carried twenty-nine miles on an improvised stretcher and arrived at a hospital here late last night. He may recover.

DICKSON RETURNS HOME.

St. John, Sept. 18.—W. R. Dickson, M. P., whose departure a fortnight ago was followed by the issuance of an arrest warrant at the instance of W. M. Mackay, a St. John landowner, whose agent he had been, has returned unexpectedly to his home in Hillsboro. He said he would take steps to get his business affairs in order.

CONTEMPT CASE HEARING.

Admission That Federationist Was Put Into Circulation Earlier Than Usual to Forestall Injunction Decrees Prohibiting Publishing of Bucks Company in "We Don't Patronize" List.

Washington, Sept. 18.—That he hastened the publication of The American Federationist for last January, so as to get it into circulation before the injunction decree of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, prohibiting the publication of the Bucks Store and Range company of St. Louis in the "we don't patronize" list of that periodical, became effective, was admitted by President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor.

The admission was made in connection with the hearing before Examiner Harper, who is taking the testimony bearing on the contempt case against Gompers and Messrs. Morrison and Mitchell of the Federation, which grows out of the alleged violation of the injunction decree.

It was shown that the order had been issued Dec. 18, 1907, and that between that date and Dec. 23, when it became effective, the January edition of The Federationist had been issued a few days in advance of the ordinary time, and Gompers did not hesitate to say that his purpose had been to continue the Bucks company's name in its list for that issue. He would not say, however, that the action had been taken in defiance of the court.

The examiner held three sittings during yesterday. Gompers was on the witness stand at all the meetings and his examination was conducted by Daniel Davenport, in behalf of the Bucks company. The questions were all directed towards securing admissions from Gompers which would assist in establishing the theory of the prosecution that the utterances of the respondents had been in contempt of court.

The afternoon was devoted by Davenport to bringing out the details concerning the Minneapolis convention of the Federation of Labor of 1906 and the Norfolk convention of 1907, with the view of showing Gompers' responsibility for and connection with the latest declarations of those gatherings. He admitted the appointment of committees and other acts incidental to his service as presiding officer.

During the afternoon session Davenport took occasion to discontinue the report that President Van Cleave of the Manufacturers' National Protective association had undertaken to raise a fund of $1,500,000 for the prosecution of the fight against organized labor. "It makes me smile," he said.

METEOR DROPS IN HARBOR.

Boston, Sept. 18.—A flaming meteor dropped from the skies into Boston harbor at 7:15 o'clock last night, creating considerable fright among occupants of a number of small boats which chanced to be in the vicinity. The evening was made brilliant by the intense light and the Whittier shore was as bright as day. A loud, hissing noise was heard as the ball approached the water and, throwing up a great spray of water, finally disappeared from sight, clouds of steam rising from the ocean about the spot.

FOREGOES HIDING TEST.

Fort Huachuca, Ariz., Sept. 18.—Colonel Stewart, the so-called "military exile" of Fort Grant, left Fort Huachuca yesterday and returned to his post in obedience to the department's order to return there and forego the physical test ride of ninety miles which he had previously been directed to take. Stewart's physical condition was given as the reason for sending him back to his post without passing the test.

TELEGRAPHING BREVITIES.

The residence at Dedham, Mass., of Charles L. Harding, a wealthy manufacturer, was ruined by fire and nearly all of the contents destroyed. The cause of the fire is unknown. The loss is $45,000.

Dedham decision of the United States forestry service to establish forest service district headquarters in the national forest state is announced.

The Canadian Manufacturers' association has provided for a commission to investigate the cause of the depression in the woolen industry.

Minority stockholders filed a petition in the circuit court at St. Louis asking that a receiver be appointed for the State Trust company, a St. Louis real estate firm, capitalized at $1,000,000.

Rev. G. Parsons Nichols, D. D., one of the best known Presbyterian clergymen of the country, died at his home at Birmingham, N. Y., last night.

Fire in the small village of Brandt, Pa., did damage amounting to nearly $5,000.

The Bay Shore hotel at Green Springs, Fla., one of the largest hotels on the west coast, was destroyed by fire, forty guests having narrow escapes. Several women were rescued through windows.

MARRIAGE IS ANNULLED.

Osborne-Maloney Nuptials Not Considered Binding by Either Participant.
New York, Sept. 18.—Fear that she might be compelled by her parents to marry a titled foreigner whom she disliked was the reason which Helen Maloney of Philadelphia declared impelled her to go through a marriage ceremony with Arthur H. Osborne, a young broker of this city.

This information, given by Miss Maloney under oath when she was being examined by a referee in connection with her application to have the purported marriage annulled, was gleaned from papers in the case which were filed in court after a formal decree annulling the marriage was granted by Justice General in the supreme court.

Miss Maloney swore that the marriage never was regarded in a serious light either by herself or by Osborne; that she did not believe the contract a binding one, inasmuch as the contracting parties did not give their right names, ages or names of their parents to the justice of the peace who performed the ceremony, and that the marriage never had been consummated.

Osborne, in his answer opposing the application for annulment, also declared that no consummation of the marriage ever had taken place and that neither of the contracting parties ever intended that it should take place until after a marriage ceremony had been performed in a Roman Catholic church by a priest of that church.

DISASTROUS FIRES IN MAINE TOWNS.

Lumber, Dwellings and a Church Licked Up by Flames.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 18.—More than $250,000 loss was caused in Maine yesterday by fire, the greatest loss falling on the lumbermen in the wiping out of great quantities of stored lumber through forest fires. A number of families had themselves homeless, and in one instance, at North Vassaboro, the Methodist denomination has lost its place of worship.

The most disastrous conflagration was at Talmage, where a loss estimated at $150,000 was caused by the burning of the mills and lumber yards of the American Lumber company, a Boston firm. The loss was not covered by insurance and there is little prospect that the company will rebuild.

At Lisbon a forest fire is still raging which has already caused a loss estimated at around $25,000 and destroyed two houses and driven a dozen other families to seek safety with their household goods in teams huddled up ready to make a dash across the country. A more favorable turn of the wind seems to favor the fire fighters and it is hoped the greatest damage has been done.

Moulton suffered a $45,000 loss in the destruction of the mills of the East Machias Lumber company. Forest fires are raging also in the towns of Greene, Monmouth and Litchfield, although they are believed to be under control.

Various causes are assigned for the fires. At Talmage overcasted lumber in the dryhouse caused the fire, while at Lisbon a spark from a railroad engine started the much-church-burning in a recently cleared lot. The Machias fire is believed to have been incendiary and there is much speculation as to the cause of the North Vassaboro church fire.

RUSSIAN MINE DISASTER.

Yusovo, European Russia, Sept. 18.—Seven miners were killed and a large number injured by the caving in of the roof of the Verofsky mine. With the money of the Rikovsky mine disaster fresh in their minds, 200 men having lost their lives on that occasion, thousands of women and children crowded about the mouth of the pit, and troops had to be called out to preserve order.

WOMAN WAS DESPONDENT.

Boston, Sept. 18.—The body of a woman found floating in the Charles river was identified as that of Miss Maude Tanssleford, who until within a few days had been employed at the home of C. L. Berger. A note received by a friend of the dead woman stated that the woman was despondent and contemplated ending her life. No relatives of the woman are known.

IMMIGRATION FALLS OFF.

Washington, Sept. 18.—Immigration statistics for August show a very great decrease in the number of immigrants coming to this country, compared with the same month of 1907. The total immigration during August was 27,781, while during August, 1907, the immigrants numbered 98,825.

FRUIT STEAMERS SAFE.

Kingsford, Jan., Sept. 18.—The fruit steamers Admiral Dewey, Admiral Schey and Salvatore di Giorgio have arrived safely at Port Antonio, several days overdue. These vessels encountered the recent hurricane in the West Indies.

THE WEATHER.

Albany, Saturday, Sept. 19.
Sun rises—5:20; sets—5:48.
Moon rises—11:52 p. m.
High water—6:30 a. m.; 7 p. m.
Fair weather is indicated for New England.

A CASE IN POINT.

Why the Postmaster Cleaned Toward the Sheriff.
There is a town in northern New Hampshire where the families have been married to such an extent that it is difficult for an outsider to make the least criticism on one person without the danger of offending some of his family connections. When an unfortunate visitor commented on this fact to Mr. Corbin, the postmaster, Mr. Corbin nodded violently.

"Bill Harmon, that's our sheriff, complained of that no longer ago than last week," said he.

"You see, it took him more'n a fortnight to arrest Nate Childings because Nate got wind that he was wanted on a little matter of selling hard cider, and he went on a round of visits among his relatives—nephews, nephews-in-law and I don't know what all—and 'twasn't till he'd had his fun and went back home to his wife that Bill could make the arrest without seeming to him of but in, as you might say, and spell the neighbors."

"I should think he would make a queer kind of sheriff," said the visitor, "waiting all that time for sentimental reasons and then arresting a man when he went home just because his poor wife wasn't a relation?"

Mr. Corbin drew himself up and assumed a remote expression.

"That's as you look at it," he said in a chilly tone. "I may be a little prejudiced in Bill's favor, as he married my son-in-law's youngest sister. Anything that concerns him concerns me, you understand."

CONQUERORS CONQUERED.

The Fate of Alexander, Hannibal, Caesar and Napoleon.

It is a remarkable and instructive fact that the careers of four of the most renowned characters that ever lived closed with violent or painful deaths. Alexander, after looking down from the dizzy heights of his ambition upon a conquered world and weeping that there were no more to conquer, died of intoxication in a scene of debauch, or, as some suppose, by poison mingled in his wine.

Hannibal, whose name carried terror to the heart of Rome itself, after having crossed the Alps and put to flight the armies of the mistress of the world, was driven from his country and died at last of poison administered by his own hands in a foreign land, unattended and unwept.

Caesar, the conqueror of 800 cities and his temples bound with chaplets dipped in the blood of a million of his foes, was miserably assassinated by those he considered his nearest friends.

Bonaparte, whose mandate kings and emperors obeyed, after dilling the earth with the terror of his name, closed his days in lonely banishment upon a barren rock in the midst of the Atlantic ocean.

Pointed With Scripture.

A bachelor rector of a western church was alone in his study when his housekeeper brought him the card of one of his parishioners, a splutter of means and charm.

When the lady was seated on the opposite side of his study table the rector looked at her longingly, expecting to hear something concerning parish work, in which she was active. To his surprise an embarrassed silence ensued, during which he vainly sought for something to say.

"Dr. Blank," began the lady at last in faltering tones, "do you think you fancy conditions under which a woman is justified in proposing?"

"Why, yes," said the rector, after some deliberation.

"Then art the man?" said the lady resolutely.

A Ready Answer.

The captain of a schooner that trades between New York and Savannah is noted for his wit, and on every occasion that offers he loses his shafts of humor, to the chagrin and embarrassment of his target. Sooner or later the slyer gets stung, and this chronic pun artist is no exception to the rule.

On one occasion when about two days out from New York he approached a group of sailors who were washing the forward deck, and, slinging out a big, I coned Irishman who was expounding his first taste of sailor's life, he gravely asked, "Can you steer the landward down the forecastle starg?" (quick as a flash came the reply, "Yes, sir; I can if you will stand below and call it up.") Philadelphia Ledger.

Rough on the Doctor.

One night as a Canadian doctor who lives in eastern Ontario was driving into a village he saw a chap, a little worse for liquor, abusing a crowd of spectators with the antics of his rickie dog. The doctor watched him awhile and said: "Sandy, how do you manage to train your dog? I can't teach mine to do anything."

Sandy, with that simple look in his eyes, said, "Well, you see, dog, you have to know more'n the dog or you can't learn him nothing."

About the poorest kind of a reputation is the kind a man gets for being sarcastic.—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE MAN WHO KNOWS IT ALL.

We trace him through the bustling throng. We find him at the play. Over church and club and restaurant extends his awesome sway. In melody or in mirth. At breakfast, bath or ball. We meet the droll boss on earth—The man who "knows it all."

We seek him by his lofty air. And see his lofty robes. That bill the vesting and flowing. "The times are tough," he says. "I'm obliged to go to bed." But, should a sudden call. He'll come out to command. "This man who knows it all."

Hum, that's nothing, it's only a trifle. "Blahs," (addressed to a crowd). War, weather, war and with. "Mud, mud, mud," he says. "On my right hand is the sea. The left hand is the sea. The right hand is the sea. The left hand is the sea."

I envy not a single man. His knowledge is a gem. He'll tell you anything. He'll tell you anything. He'll tell you anything. He'll tell you anything.

FOR GOVERNOR, HON. HENRY B. QUINBY

Hiram A. Tuttle called the convention to order and after reading the list of convention officers that had been agreed upon they were ratified by the convention and then Mr. Tuttle turned over the convention to permanent chairman, Hon. Wallace Hackett of Portsmouth.

Mr. Hackett's Address

Mr. Hackett said in part: "I thank you very cordially for the honor which you have extended me, in selecting me for your presiding officer. I came to the convention as a delegate from my old town, the city of Portsmouth, in which all loyal citizens of New Hampshire may take a just pride. In its rich historical, patriotic and commercial traditions, I received no intimation that my services would be required in a more prominent capacity until late yesterday afternoon. The honor was entirely unthought of."

"There is one thing that I am entirely unprovided with, and that is, I have no speech prepared worthy of this convention. Custom has decreed that the chairman of this convention shall make a keynote speech. That custom will be departed from on this occasion. You will have to worry along without it. I humbly desire to remind you that we are all here as loyal Republicans, to select the man who shall be the next governor of the state of New Hampshire. Let us pledge ourselves to a square deal and a fair count. Let us put up a good fight, and may the best man win. And when that result is reached, and we have nominated our ticket, and roll up a good old-fashioned Republican majority for the candidate of this convention. We will form a united army and stand shoulder to shoulder, all working with a fixed purpose to secure the honorable election of our candidate and the triumph of the Republican party."

Chairman Hackett's plea for harmony after the nominations should have been made was greeted with enthusiastic cheers, as was also his reference to the national ticket of the party.

Ten per cent of the delegates having asked for a ballot by roll call, as provided by an act of the last legislature, rules for the conduct of the voting were next adopted. These rules provided that the voting should be by counties, each delegate rising and answering when his name was called. The committee on credentials reported that of the 806 delegates to which the convention was entitled, 792 were present.

Mr. Chandler Offers a Resolution
Former U. S. Senator Wm. E. Chandler then offered a resolution asking that the legislature make an appropriation for the erection of a statue in honor of President Franklin Pierce, a native of New Hampshire. In speaking in favor of the resolution Senator Chandler referred to the fact that objection has been made to the erection of a statue of President Pierce because he was a proslavery president, but the speaker declared that nearly fifty years have elapsed since the Pierce administration, that slavery has been abolished, and that all residents of the state ought to unite in perpetuating the memory of the only New Hampshire President.

F. H. Buffum of Winchester displayed his Grand Army button and advised that the former senator wait for a few more funerals before he pressed his resolution, declaring that the Union veterans of the civil war would never consent to the honoring of a traitor.

Senator Chandler, resuming the floor, said that he would withdraw the resolution, inasmuch as he did not care to press it unless favorable action would be unanimous.

The resolutions committee not being prepared to report a platform, the nomination of candidates for governor was taken up.

The first speaker was Edwin C. Beane of Belmont, who placed in nomination Henry B. Quinby of Lakeport.

Beane's Nomination of Quinby

In placing Mr. Quinby in nomination Mr. Beane said in part:

"Naturally endowed with a strong and vigorous mind, supplemented by a liberal education and ripened by a career of experience and usefulness in public and private life seldom allotted to one man, Colonel Quinby represents in himself the material from which the successful executives of this country have been taken."

"He is a reformer in its truest sense, and his record as such is based upon the labors of a lifetime, striving at all times to bring about purer methods and clearer policies in our public affairs; and if noninated today for the office of governor, and that choice be ratified by the people in November, he will bring to that high office a vigorous and well developed mind, thoroughly equipped in the practical details of life, and one that would readily respond to the requirements of the present and the demand of the future, no matter how arduous and onerous they might be, I present for Henry B. Quinby as a candidate for governor of New Hampshire."

The mention of Mr. Quinby's name was greeted with prolonged cheering.

Sherman E. Burroughs of Manchester then mounted the platform to Pillsbury's name to the convention he spoke in part as follows:

Burroughs Nominates Pillsbury

Mr. Burroughs said in part: "The Republican party has decided to do some work in New Hampshire. We have met here to pick out a superintendent to have charge of the work. Isn't it good business judgment for us to pick out a man to superintend this work who himself wanted the work done in the first place? I think it is, and I therefore name for this reform work a man who was one of the first to say he was in favor of doing it; a man who upon the platform and through the great newspaper that he controls has done his utmost to make these principles popular and secure their enactment into sufficient law; a man who has openly fought the hideous and hateful pass system until he has made it an object of scorn and derision among all decent men."

"In the name of this splendid delegation, in the name of the great majority of the delegates from Hillsborough county, and in the name of delegates from every county in the state who want to see him nominated because they want to see the work done which the Republican party in New Hampshire has set itself to do, I name as the next Republican governor Roger W. Pillsbury of Londonderry."

The demonstration for Pillsbury was longer than that for Quinby, many of the delegates rising in their seats and cheering and waving hats.

Nominating Bertram Ellis

C. Gale Shedd of Keene then presented the name of Bertram Ellis in behalf of Cheshire county, speaking in part as follows:

Mr. Shedd said in part: "Twenty-five years have elapsed since the city of Keene or the county of Cheshire has appeared before a state convention with a candidate for governor. For this quarter of a century, we have furnished good Republican majorities and shall continue to do so. But, gentlemen, we feel today that we have a right to suggest a candidate, and we submit for your consideration a gentleman thoroughly conversant with the condition and needs of the state; a man who, more than any other in the field, will harmonize the party in all sections of the state; a man who, if nominated, will be elected without the slightest doubt; a man who, when elected, may be trusted to carry out the wishes and desires of the people, and in whose hands the progressive policies of the party may be entrusted for execution."

"Without further words, gentlemen, I suggest to this convention as Republican candidate for governor, Bertram Ellis of Keene."

The Ellis delegates also rose in their seats and cheered for their candidate, but the noise was not quite so long as that for the other two candidates.

At the conclusion of Mr. Shedd's address there was a prolonged outburst of applause. There being no more nominations, the report of the committee on resolutions was presented by John E. Beaton of Keene, in behalf of James Templeton of Exeter, the chairman of the committee.

The Platform

The following are the resolutions presented by the committee on platform:

"I.—Rejoicing in half a century of glorious history, meeting with rebellion, determination and patriotism the issues of the present, cleared as to the problems of the future, the Republican party of this country points to a nation saved, purified, restored and expanded; to slavery abolished, to public credit preserved, to prosperity promoted, to national honor protected, to a nation in tranquility at home, honored and respected abroad; and upon its record in war and in peace confidently demands the approval and endorsement of the American people. It has given to this nation Lincoln and Grant, McKinley and Roosevelt. It has saved it from secession, repudiation and Bryanism. Bearing not the exactions of predatory wealth on the one hand nor the demands of anarchy and demagoguery on the other, it will pursue the path of patronism, progress and Rooseveltism.

The Republicans of New Hampshire are proud of their history of more than 50 years. They challenge just criticism of their almost continuous administration of state affairs. They have met in the past, they will meet in the future the issues as they arise and they will solve them in a spirit of fairness, of progressiveness and justice to all. To the principles of the party in the nation they declare their adhesion and support; to its candidates they are steadfast and true, and to Taft and Sherman they pledge the electoral vote of New Hampshire.

"II.—The rate of taxation levied on public service corporations shall be the average rate of taxation upon the property of individuals throughout the state, and shall not be reduced by taking into consideration the capital of insurance companies and the deposits in savings banks upon which the rate has been reduced for particular and beneficent reasons."

"Upon the report of the existing tax commission to revise the tax laws of the state, we pledge our best efforts to procure legislation that will insure a fair and equitable valuation of the property within the state, and its proportionate taxation in accordance with the principles here declared."

"III.—We demand that the issuance of free passes by railroads be limited by penal statute to those actually and permanently engaged in the ordinary daily business of those corporations and those employed in handling the mail and express business on trains, or accompanying the carrying freight and persons in misfortune who are unable to pay their fares."

"IV.—We are in favor of the passage of a law requiring attorneys and all other persons appearing before a legislative committee in a representative capacity to enter their appearance with the secretary of state in a book kept up for that purpose, which shall be open to the public, stating in whose interest they appear and such law should also require returns of their fees and expenses."

"V.—We demand the passage of a direct primary law, which shall confine party nominations to party adherents, and which shall place the nomination of all elective state officers in the hands of the people."

"VI.—We favor the enactment of legislation tending to restrict to its minimum the use of intoxicants. Upon the Legislature devolves the duty of drafting such laws; and if that body shall decide to retain the general form of regulation now governing the liquor traffic, we urge that every possible legal safeguard be provided to protect the taxpayer from the evils of the liquor traffic, which we wish of those communities which vote for no license, and that an assistant attorney-general be provided whose special duty it shall be to act under the direction of the attorney-general in the strict enforcement of the liquor laws."

"VII.—An education is the foundation of good citizenship, we are in favor of the enactment of wise and deliberate legislation to improve our public schools and to provide all the children within the state as far as possible, equal opportunities to secure the elements of a sound education. To this end the appropriation for aid under the equalization law should be increased thereby enabling the county districts to lengthen the school year, and the state should provide increased facilities for the training of teachers, so that a better qualified force of instructors in the elementary branches may be secured."

"VIII.—The laws in the interest of labor which have been enacted in state and nation have been for the most part placed upon the statute books by the Republican party. In no state of the Union has there been fewer strikes, lockouts and labor troubles than in New Hampshire, and towns of New Hampshire."

"New Hampshire should be in the lead in promoting the welfare of those who sustain the industries of the state, and we favor the passage of laws which shall fully meet the just demands of labor."

"We view with apprehension the continued absence from the carrying trade of the world of American built ships, and we urge upon Congress the passage of an effective measure for the revival of the United States merchant marine, as specially urged by our senior United States senator."

"X.—We reaffirm the platform adopted by the Republican state convention of September, 1906, and recommend to the Republicans of the various towns and cities that their candidates for the Senate and House of Representatives be required to pledge their best efforts to secure the fulfillment of the principles enunciated in this platform."

"As Republicans of New Hampshire in convention assembled, we pledge our unqualified support to the candidate who shall be chosen by this convention as our standard bearer."

No Choice on First Ballot

At the conclusion of the reading of the platform, which was loudly cheered the voting began at 12:30, and the seven hundred and ninety-two delegates had voted at 2:10 o'clock and the counting took another half hour.

When Chairman Hackett announced that the ballot was ready a stillness prevailed over the hall until after the vote had been declared. It was as follows:

Total votes cast	788
Necessary for choice	395
Charles H. Greenleaf had	2
William E. Chandler had	3
Edmund S. Cook had	16
Bertram L. Ellis had	143
Roger W. Pillsbury had	252
Henry B. Quinby had	372
There was no choice.

Quinby Nominated

Chairman Hackett at once called another ballot and this was accomplished in much less time and at 4:05 it was concluded and shortly afterwards announced.

When the ballot was read and Quinby's nomination assured, there was a demonstration that lasted for several minutes, until the convention was finally brought to order by the chairman.

On motion of Hon. C. Gale Shedd, seconded by Sherman Burroughs, the nomination of Mr. Quinby was made unanimous.

A committee of which Mr. Burroughs was chairman was appointed to wait on Mr. Quinby and notify him of his nomination and they shortly arrived back in the convention hall with him.

Mr. Quinby Accepts Nomination

Mr. Quinby was received with a great demonstration and as soon as it was over he was introduced by Chairman Hackett as the next governor of New Hampshire. In a speech that brought the delegates to their feet he accepted the nomination, and pledged himself to support the platform.

State Committee Chosen

At the conclusion of the ovation which followed the speech of acceptance the usual state committee was chosen, the Portsmouth members being Mr. John W. Kelley and E. P. Steadard.

A special train left Concord at 4:45 and came way through to Portsmouth.

Presidential Electors

During the counting of the votes in the first ballot a special committee of which Hon. Rufus N. Elwell of Exeter was chairman was appointed to bring in a list of Presidential electors. They recommended the following gentlemen and they were at once nominated:

CHARLES H. GREENLEAF, Frankford.
SUMNER WALLACE, Rochester.
FRANK E. ANDERSON, Nashua.
WARREN BROWN, Hampton Falls.

IN TIGHT BOX

Uncle Sam is After the Portland Druggists Again

Some of the Portland druggists are again between the devil and the deep sea as it were. Some time ago they gave up their internal revenue tax receipts since these were taken in court as prima facie evidence of having for illegal sale, or at least for some kind of sale, intoxicating liquors. Since then they have for the most part been doing business without these documents. Of late internal revenue agents have been going about among them with instructions to everybody to take out these tax receipts again or else stop selling alcohol. Several of the firms have therefore taken out their receipts, but not with the slightest intention of violating the liquor law, or any part thereof. Yet there are others, and it looked very much as though there would be another mix-up in the very first time anything happens to involve a druggist in a liquor prosecution in court.

The Exeter high school football candidates reported Thursday afternoon twenty strong to Captain Ralph E. Doe. Of last year's eleven the boys to return are the Houston brothers, Roode, Doe and Dwyer. Manager C. Harold Rodgers has arranged a schedule of ten games which will include contests with Punchard High of Andover, Methuen High, Dover High, Amesbury High and possibly Newburyport High. The remainder will include games with the academy class teams.

The football candidates at the academy campus on Thursday reached to a total number of forty-five. The four of last year's eleven were augmented by the arrival of Lewis, last year's full back, Cooney, sub-center, and Kuschwitz, guard of last year's eleven, and Murray, sub-end. This makes a nucleus for Coach Glaze to build his team on: Downing, Dunn, Sharon, Ross, Cooney, Kuschwitz, Lewis and Murray.

Winter Rose of the class of 1899 at the academy is a visitor in town. He is the manager of an electrical firm in Loraine, O., and came here to enter a son at the academy. He was an interested spectator at the football practice this afternoon. While at the academy he was a member of the second eleven in the fall of 1897.

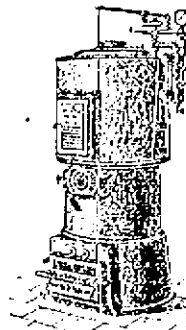

Miss Annie M. French has returned to Mars Hill, Me., to resume her teaching of languages in the Arrostook Institute.

Gyp, the black mare owned by Benjamin Brown, won second money in the 2:40 class at the Newmarket fair.

A slight fire broke out Thursday noon between the blocks of R. D. Burpee's store and Prigot's fruit store. The blaze was in an alley way between these blocks and was from a rubbish fire. No alarm was sounded, and the flames were extinguished without damage.

A conference of school boards, under the direction of the New Hampshire state department of public instruction, will be held Nov. 13 at Exeter. A high school institute will be held the next day.

Keeneborough George of Brentwood, at its last session, voted to purchase the hall building in which it has met for seventeen years and will immediately repair it.

Your Heater put in order for the Winter. Pipes, Radiators and Valves furnished.

THE WEATHER

The United States weather bureau holds out some faint encouragement that we will have rain in a day or two. The smoke from Maine forest fires was so heavy and pungent last night that it interfered with the slumbers of people in Portsmouth.

Today is smoky and windy and uncomfortable.

The mercury stood opposite the seventy-fourth degree mark at two o'clock.

CITY BRIEFS

Lobsters are growing scarce again. The Herald will do your want advertising and do it well.

The returned delegates all say it was a great convention.

Have your shoes repaired at John Mott's, 34 Congress street.

Business firms are selecting their style of calendars for 1909.

The Toboggan on Green street is in the hands of the potatoes.

If you get the Herald you are sure to get the local news complete.

The city is wrapped in smoke today from the forest fire at York.

The Democrats of Rockingham county are organizing a thym club.

The latest order to the workmen at the navy yard is certainly of a "Crimo" variety.

A prominent member of the Burdock Club is completely wrapped up in the study of aerial navigation.

Several french from Hildreth were here yesterday and were entertained by the members of Moses H. Goodrich Company.

There were several brush fires about the surrounding country on Thursday and the smoke in places was very thick.

The Portsmouth delegation to the state convention at Concord on Thursday was certainly on the fringe line all the while.

These are not years of joy or sorrow today. They are just years of the irritant quality of the smoke from the forest fire at York.

The criminal docket for the October term of court will be the largest for some years. There are a great many important cases for the grand jury.

Rain was never more needed than at present. The roads are inches deep with dust and the drought is beginning to be felt in the surrounding towns.

The Herald's reports of the celebration of the centennial of religious journalism have been receiving high praise from the visitors who came to Portsmouth for that occasion. They were surprised to see how much better the news was handled here than in towns in western and southern states.

A BIG LOSS

In the forest fire now raging in York over two million feet of sawed lumber and two thousand cords of wood on the Charles O. Jenkins lot have been wiped out by the flames. The loss is said to amount to $10,000 or more and the origin of the blaze is ascribed to some of the Italian camps in the vicinity of Folly Pond.

DEMOCRATS BUSY

The Democratic city committee held a busy meeting on Thursday evening to lay out the campaign work. John L. Mitchell will hold over as chairman.

EMERSON C. LOCKE
MAY LOSE AN EYESustains Painful Accident While At Work At Navy Yard

Emerson C. Locke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus R. Locke of South street, an apprentice joiner in the department of construction and repair at the navy yard, sustained a painful injury this morning while at work on a circular saw in the department shop.

A large piece of flying wood struck him with much force in the face, tearing one of his eyes in a horrible manner. It is feared he will lose the sight of the organ.

He was attended by the medical force of the yard and later sent to his home in this city, where Dr. A. C. Heffenger was called on the case.

FATAL DIPHTHERIA

Mrs. William Spodice is Dead from the Dread Disease

Mrs. Nellie Mae Spodice, wife of William Spodice, died from diphtheria this morning at the home on the Sagamore road. She had been ill three days.

Besides her husband she is survived by her aged mother.

JOHN PRUETT

Death of Former Portsmouth Boarding House Keeper

John Pruett died this morning at his home in Kittery Point, aged twenty-four years, eight months and twenty-four days.

Mr. Pruett was a seafaring man all about twenty years ago and was many years ship's cook on some of the best known vessels in Atlantic waters.

He ran a boarding house in Portsmouth from the time he left the sea till he retired, eight years ago, the most of the time being located on Commercial place.

His wife died last winter.

He is survived by several sons who are skippers of merchant vessels, and by one daughter.

AT THE NAVY YARD

The different departments are busy collecting un-serviceable material to the government, which will at a later date be disposed of at public auction.

George A. Casey, former stenographer in construction and repair, now of the Interstate commerce bureau at Washington, D. C., is passing a few days in town.

L. P. Colvin, a marine attached to the Maine Island navy yard, was drowned last week off the docks near the navy yard. Colvin was formerly stationed at the Portsmouth yard and was one of a detachment shortly to leave for the Philippines.

Notice has been received from Washington stating that the navy regulations have been so amended that the board of inspection at the navy yards will be done away with and all goods and material purchased shall be inspected by the department for which they are intended.

The household goods of Medical Directors Derr and Steele are being shipped from the yard to their respective quarters at Providence and Baltimore.

Fred E. Trask of the equipment department is enjoying a short furlough.

Much sympathy is expressed about the yard for Emerson Locke, the apprentice in the construction and repair department, who was injured this forenoon.

It is thought that the place of captain of the yard, made vacant by the death of Captain Merriam, will not be filled for at least two months.

SUED THE RAILROAD

For Deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Chamberlain

Harry S. Chamberlain, administrator, has sued the Boston and Maine railroad for $10,000 damages claimed on account of the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Chamberlain of this city, caused by the Barrett street accident of July 19. Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain, it will be remembered, were riding in an electric car, which was stalled on the crossing by the trolley getting off. A shorting locomotive hit the car. Mrs. Chamberlain was killed by her neck breaking as she struck the ground when knocked from the car. Mr. Chamberlain was seriously injured and died three weeks later.

TO FIND HER DAUGHTER

Herald Asked to Locate Girl Who Was Married in Portsmouth

Mrs. Thomas P. Gorman of Whitcomb, Mass., writes the Herald and asks the paper to locate her sixteen-year-old daughter, Winona G. Gorman, whom she claims, left her home with a man by the name of Frank E. Nelson.

The couple were married in this city by Rev. George W. Farmer on Sept. 3 and neither of them has since been heard from more than through a telegram which she sent to her mother stating that she was married and not to worry. The mother is heart broken over the marriage.

The marriage being application shows that the girl's age was stated as eighteen.

SOLDIERS ON STREETS
IN EARLY MORNINGMystery is Explained by Trips to the Rifle Range

The men attached to the 156th Company, coast artillery at Fort Constitution, have attracted much attention by the early morning march on the streets. People have been wondering what the soldier boys were at.

They are doing a turn at rifle work at the range on Jones avenue and, after landing by steamer at the North End docks, they march back and forth to the practice grounds.

The daily detachment includes forty men who make the trip and blaze away at the target.

THE AUTUMN OF 1908.

We beg to announce the formal opening of the Autumn Furniture Season and to express the firm belief that this will prove the most prosperous year of our existence. We base this statement on the extent and magnificence of our stock, the general prosperity that is bound to come, our greatly increased purchasing power which creates unapproachably low prices, which removes great burdens from the shoulders of workingmen and makes marriage possible among people heretofore kept apart because of limited means.

PARTICULAR ATTENTION CALLED TO OUR LINE OF PORTIERES.
